

SUPPORT FROM NURSES

Up to half of all patients do not follow prescribed treatments and one in five doesn't even collect their first prescription. We provide the opportunity to connect to nurses who give support and guidance both on the phone and in the home.

WHY CHOOSE THIS SERVICE?

More patients need to take their prescribed medicines. The more people who follow their prescribed treatment, the greater the chance that the person who is ill can recover and the lower the costs for society. Support from nurses makes it possible to ensure that patients get access to their pharmaceuticals and know how to use them.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SERVICE

We provide support from registered and specially trained nurses. The patients give their proxy to a nurse to check the prescribed pharmaceuticals have really been collected by the patient or delivered home using Tamro's home delivery service. The nurse can also give practical advice, for example during a titration phase, and create a sense of security that increases the patient's willingness to follow their prescribed treatment.
