

READING OF TEMPERATURE LOGS

A growing number of companies are monitoring their incoming deliveries with various types of temperature logs to ensure that the temperature during shipping remained within the intended temperature range. Tamro can help you read your temperature logs. There are various ways of structuring the service to best suit your company's needs.

WHY CHOOSE THIS SERVICE?

We can provide you with data from the temperature log on the transportation temperature of the goods. This allows you to know for certain that the goods were transported at the intended temperature when they arrive at our warehouse.

DESCRIPTION OF SERVICE

Tamro offers a number of sub-services related to the reading of temperature logs for incoming deliveries. We can help you with such services as:

- Checking the temperature log upon delivery
- Reading the temperature log of incoming deliveries
- Sending the temperature curve for control and/or feedback/remedies from the customer
- Blocking goods if the temperature log indicates a deviating temperature
- Releasing blocked goods if the temperature of the incoming delivery was acceptable
- Saving multi-use temperature logs
- Resending multi-use temperature logs

You can combine the services according to your preferences. We have also defined a number of standard varieties that you can choose from.

