

HANDLING SAMPLES

There are many reasons for sampling – everything from your own quality controls to government requirements. We gladly help you produce and handle product samples such as reference samples and visual samples.

WHY CHOOSE THIS SERVICE?

Tamro has a long experience of handling samples. We offer several types of sampling based on your wishes and make sure everything is done correctly. It does not matter if we have recently received your products or if they are already in stock. Contact us when you need help with samples and we will solve it.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SERVICE

Our sample handling service is divided into several parts: Producing and controlling samples if needed, sending samples to analysts or back to your company, storing samples for a desired amount of time under the right conditions and finally destroying samples.

Producing samples. We produce as many samples as you want of the desired batch. You can even get the samples controlled according to your wishes.

Sending samples. We can send samples wherever you want, at any time. For example, to your office or to another location.

Warehousing samples. We offer storage of samples for the required time. Warehousing is well organized according to the conditions required by the goods.

Destroying samples. If the samples are to be destroyed after control or storage, we can do it for you. We follow current rules for the destruction of pharmaceuticals.
